There is no acceptance in writing. The written offer was rescinded prior to any acceptance. There will be no payment to your client. If you choose to file a motion, we will seek fees from your client.

Unfortunately, we have an offer /acceptance confirmed in writing which is enforceable. I will ask my client if he is ok to withdraw the agreement but I doubt it. Please also understand that if we are forced to file a motion to enforce, we will seek additional penalties, including attorney fees. Of course you are free to participate in the deposition tomorrow. That does not affect our claims in any way. Also as an aside there was no crossclaim filed by the rr so I do not see a way they could seek contribution.

Sorry for the multiple emails. After further discussion with my client, he has decided to discontinue settlement discussions and rescind the offer. He would prefer to have representation on Friday and finish out this phase of the case. Please confirm receipt of this email and I will see you on Friday.

Sincerely,

Neal,

Upon further reflection, my client is going to need an indemnification from NS as well. I can't have him testify and then be subject to contribution if your client somehow prevails on the merits. With your permission, I would like to discuss this with Alyssa so that I can get a mutual indemnification between my client and hers prior to the deposition. This is a condition of the settlement between Bryant and McWilliams as well. See attached revised agreement including an additional WHEREAS clause.

Thanks,

Paul
